

TAKEAWAY

How to Live Right Now

Part One: 1 Peter 1:1-2

DESIRED OUTCOMES

- To be struck by some of the key, wonderful things that God has made true for us as His people.
- To walk into 2025 armed with a sense of the goodness of God in our lives.

SHARE

What brings you the most joy when you think ahead about 2025? What are you concerned about?

What do you already know about Peter? In what ways is he reassuringly like all of us?

DISCUSS

How would you explain 1 Peter 1:1-2 in your own words – maybe to someone who had never looked at a Bible before?

On Sunday, Matt said that the introductory words of 1 Peter show us that we have the greatest parent, the greatest home, the greatest power and the greatest leader. Which of these strikes you most today? Which do you want to hold on to for the year ahead?

Peter's introduction ends with the words 'grace and peace be yours in abundance'. How do the things he's just said have the power to build grace and peace in our lives?

Are you experiencing grace and peace in your life right now? Why or why not? If yes, why? If not, what would have to happen for you to do so?

TRY OUT

Pick one of: God is the greatest parent, He gives us the greatest home, He gives us the greatest power, and He is the greatest leader. Look for a situation this week where one of these truths matters significantly to your choices and experiences. Be ready to share next week!

PRAY

Spend time praying for one another for your responses to the questions above. Pray for one another to experience grace and peace in abundance.
